The HOUSE of COMMONS—AN IRISHMAN'S PROTEST.

TO ENGLISHMEN, SCOTCHMEN, IRISHMEN, and OUR COLONIES

AN IRISHMAN'S ELOQUENT PROTEST.—Richard Lalor Shiel once startled the House of Commons and the country when the word "alien" was applied to him as an Irishman "On the field of Waterloo," he exclaimed, "the blood of Englishmen, Scotchmen, and Irishmen flowed in the same stream and drenched the same sod—when the cold grey morning dawned they lay stiff and stark together; in the same trench their bodies were laid; the green corn of spring bursts even now from their commingled dust; the dew falls from heaven upon their union in the grave. Partakers in every peril, are we not to be partakers in glory? Are we to be told we are aliens from that noble country for whose salvation our life blood was poured?" The effect of the speech both inside and outside the House was electrical.

THE MORAL.

I need not be missed if another succeed me;
To reap down those fields which in spring I have sown.
He who ploughed and who sowed is not missed by the reaper,
He is only remembered by what he has done."

The misery of Life is immensely increased in these days of Fevers, if you miss such a single precaution as Batliwalla's Ague-Mixture and Pills.

Most powerful remedies for Malarious, Intermittent, Bilious Fevers, Influenza and Mild form of Plague.

Equally useful to Men, Women, and Children of all ages.

Guaranteed not to contain Aconite, Antimony, Arsenic, Mercury, Opium, Strychnia or any poisonous salts.

Why be miserable? Why not be wise instead

Take the right remedy at the right time, and get rid of that nasty fever, by using Batliwalla's Ague Pills or Mixture.

EXTRACTS out of numerous testimonials of BATLIWALLA'S AGUE MIXTURE and PILLS FOR REMEDIES FOR MALARIAL FEVERS AND INFLUENZA. Surg.-Maj. Jaykar:—It is a safe and reliable remedy. Surg.-Maj. Reporter:—I have found it very efficacious. J. Y. Lang, Esq., (Dep. Grand Master of all Scottish Free Masonary in India):—Derived immediate benefit from its use. Rev. P. Fernand Xavier de Vare:—It is most efficacious. G. S. Risti, Esq., Llc. of Civ. Engr.:—It is safe and immediate remedy. P. J. Daily, Esq., Chief Guard. S. M. Railway:—It is really a dying man's Gold Drop.

BATLIWALLA'S AGUE MIXTURE or BATLIWALLA'S AGUE PILLS & BATLIWALLA'S COLERAL (Specific for Cholera) may be had from Treasher & Co., Kemp & Co., Phillips & Co., Boynot & Co., &c., &c., &c. or from the Sole Manufacturers, Dr. H. L. Batliwalla, Worli, Dadar, Bombay. at Re. 1-8 per bottle.

NOTICE.

AN INDUSTRIAL and AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION will be held in BOMBAY, in DECEMBER 1904, in connection with the 20th Session of the Indian National Congress. Intending Exhibitors are requested to apply for particulars to the Undersigned.

VITHALDAS DAMODHER THACKERSEY,
Chairman,
Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition Committee.

PROCLAMATION.—BOMBAY to WIT.—By virtue of a Precept to me directed, I hereby proclaim and give Notice, that the FOURTH SESSIONS of 1904, of OYER and TERMINER, and GENERAL GAOL DELIVERY will be holden before the High Court of Judicature at Bombay, at the Court House, on THURSDAY, the 1st day of September, 1904, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, for the trial of all Treasons, Murders and other Felonies, Perjury, Trespasses and other Crimes, Misdemeanors and Offences had, done, or committed within the Town and Island of Bombay, and the Limits thereof, and the Factories subordinate thereto; and also to inquire, hear, and determine, in the like manner, all Treasons, Murders, Felonies, Forgeries, Perjuries, Crimes, Extortions, Misdemeanors, Offences, Wrongs, and Oppressions, had, done, or committed by any of His Majesty's British subjects in any of the Territories which now are subject to, or dependent upon, the Government of Bombay, or within any of the Dominions of the Native Princes of India in alliance with the said Government.

And also, that at the same time and place will be holden a Session of Admiralty, for the trial of all Treasons, Murders, Piracies, Robberies, Felonies, Misdemeanors, Offences and other Maritime Crimes whatsoever, done or committed on the High Seas.

And I hereby give notice to all persons bound to prosecute and give evidence at the above Sessions, or in any way concerned therein, that they are to attend at the time and place abovementioned, and not to depart without leave of the Court.

And I hereby give notice to all Justices of the Peace, Coroners, Inclosers and also all Chief Constables and Bailiffs of the Town and Island of Bombay and the limits thereof, that they be then and there in their own persons, with their Rolls, Records, Indictments and other Remembrances to do those things which to their offices in that behalf appertain to be done.—Dated this 10th day of August, 1904.

IBRAHIM RAHIMTOOLA,
Sheriff of Bombay.

BOMBAY PORT TRUST.

FOUR PER CENT. DEBENTURE LOAN, 1904.

SIXTY YEARS.

Rs. 36,50,000.

WITH the Sanction of the Government of India and under the provisions of Sections 39-42 of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, and of Section 2 of Act I of 1881, and of Act I of 1898, the Trustees of the Port of Bombay invite tenders for Port Trust Debentures to the extent in the aggregate of Rs. 36 and-a-half Lakhs.

The Trustees reserve to themselves the right of refusing tenders if they consider the rates offered to be too low, but, subject to this reservation allotments will be made in full to the highest Tenderers, and rateably to the Tenderers offering the lowest rate accepted by the Trustees.

These Debentures will be issued for sums of Rs. 500 or multiples of Rs. 500 as may be required; they will be repayable to holder at sixty years, and will bear interest at 4 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st January and 1st July.

2 per cent. of the amount tendered must be deposited on application, and the balance on or before Monday, 31st October, 1904. Interest will accrue from the date of payment in full.

The deposit of 2 per cent. will be returned (but no interest will be allowed) if no allotment is made and it will be forfeited if an allotment is not fully taken up on the last date named

Tenders will be received by the Secretary, Port Trust, up to one o'clock p. m. (gun fire) on TUESDAY, 30th August, 1904 and they will thereafter be opened in the presence of the Chairman of the Port Trust.

Printed forms of Tender can be obtained on application to the Secretary Port Trust at whose Office a form of the Debenture to be issued can be seen.

Under Clause 41 of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, the interest on these Debentures will form a charge on the Trustees' revenue PRIOR to the charge of interest on any portion of the Trustees' debt to Government which may, from time to time, be owing.

In accordance with the power contained in Section 20, clause (f) of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, the Bombay High Court has passed a rule declaring that Trust property consisting of money may be invested in debentures issued by the Trustees of the Port of Bombay under the Bombay Port Trust Act (Bombay Act VI of 1879) until further orders. Orders to the same effect have been passed by the Chief Courts and Authorities of Madras, Punjab, Coorg, Sind and Lower Burma.

By Order of the Trustees,

H. E. HART,
Secretary.

Bombay, 2nd August, 1904.

NO SUFFERER NEED NOW DESPAIR,

but without running a doctor's bill or falling into the deep ditch of quackery, may safely, speedily and economically cure himself without the knowledge of a second party. By the introduction of a complete revolution has been wrought in this department of medical science, whilst thousands have been restored to health and happiness who for years previously had been merely dragging out a miserable existence.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY

THERAPION No. 1—A Sovereign Remedy for discharges from the urinary organs, superseding injections, the use of which does irreparable harm by laying the foundation of stricture and other serious diseases.

THERAPION No. 2—A Sovereign Remedy for primary and secondary skin eruptions, ulcerations, pains and swellings of the joints, and all those complaints which mercury and sarsaparilla are popularly but erroneously supposed to cure. This preparation purifies the whole system through the blood and thoroughly eliminates all poisonous matter from the body.

THERAPION No. 3—A Sovereign Remedy for debility, nervousness, impaired vitality, sleeplessness, distaste and incapacity for business or pleasure, love of solitude, blushing, indigestion, pains in the back and head, and all those disorders resulting from early error and excess which the faculty so persistently ignore, because so impotent to cure or even relieve.

THERAPION is sold by principal Chemists throughout the world. Price in England 2/9 & 4/6. In ordering, state which of the three numbers required, and observe that the word "THERAPION" appears on British Government Stamp (in white letters on a red ground) affixed to every package by order of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners, and without which it is a forgery.

A SAFE REMEDY
FOR ALL
SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES.

If you suffer from any disease due to an impure state of the Blood, FROM WHATEVER CAUSE ARISING, you should test the value of Clarke's Blood Mixture, the world-famed Blood Purifier and Restorer. This medicine has 40 years' reputation, and is to-day more popular than ever, the reason of this being undoubtedly because this wonderful remedy does what it professes to do—IT CURES SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES PERMANENTLY.

Clarke's Blood Mixture

IS THE FINEST BLOOD PURIFIER EVER DISCOVER

It is warranted to cleanse the blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For

SCROFULA,	BAD LEGS,
SCURVY,	BLOTCHES,
ECZEMA,	SPOTS,
BLOOD POISON,	BLACKHEADS.
ULCERS,	PIMPLES,
SKIN & BLOOD DISEASES,	AND SORES OF ALL KINDS

it is a safe and Permanent Remedy.

It is the only real specific for Gout and Rheumatic Pains, for it removes the cause from the Blood and Bones.

NOTE This mixture is pleasant to the taste and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, from infancy to old age, and the Proprietors solicit sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Thousands of wonderful cures have been effected by it.

TRIED MANY THINGS WITHOUT BENEFIT UNTIL I TOOK CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE.

Mr. F. E. Lewis, 48, Bridge Street Row, Chester writes:—"Just a line in favour of 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' I had eczema for seven months, and tried many things without benefit until I took your remedy. After the eighth bottle I was quite well again. Please accept this letter as a token of gratitude to your wonderful 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.'"—June 13, 1903.

IMPURITIES IN THE BLOOD.—"We have seen hosts of letters from all sorts and conditions of people, in which the writers acknowledge the benefit they have received from Clarke's Blood Mixture, which as a curative agent cannot be too highly estimated, since it cleanses and clears the blood from all impurities, and restores it to its normal condition." This is a good testimonial from the Family Doctor, the popular medical weekly, which goes on further to say: "It is certainly the finest blood purifier that science and skill have brought to light, and we can with the utmost confidence recommend it to our subscribers and the public generally."

Sold by all Chemists and Patent Medicine Vendors throughout the World.

To your ill—Cured ... 21 years.

Patient had such distinct signs of Kidney Disease as Cutting Pains in the Back, Urinary Disorders and Dizziness.

We reproduce here the photograph of Mrs. M. Skidmore, of 47, Nottingham Street, Rotherham, England. On February 9th 1900, Mrs. Skidmore said:—

Mrs. Skidmore. (From a Photo.)

"For the past few years I have been quite a different woman from what I was for 10 years before, and for this relief I have to thank your medicine, Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. It is nearly 16 years now since I had the first sign of kidney disease; it took me in the back, and every now and then a sharp, cutting pain ran through me. I used to come over so dizzy afterwards that I had to take hold of the nearest support, or I should have fallen. I have often been taken this way in the street, and you can imagine how distressing it was to me. Sometimes I feared that my eyesight was failing, for mist came before my eyes.

"One of my most serious troubles was the dropsical collection of water in my limbs and body. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills acted on this water before I had been using the medicine many days. There was a great flow of urine, and the swellings went down quickly. I found my back getting easier every day, my eyesight was better, and I did not get those awful dizzy attacks. I am now enjoying the best of health, and for some time there has not been any sign of my old complaint."

"I did not find Doan's Backache Kidney Pills purgative at all, and I can recommend the medicine as being safe and reliable."

November 2nd, 1902.—On this date Mrs. Skidmore heartily confirmed her testimony, adding, "I am still enjoying the very best of health, although it is getting on for 3 years since I was cured. Your Doan's Backache Kidney Pills quite set me up; whatever I should have done without them, I don't know."

A sample box of this medicine will be sent free, on application to FOSTER-McCLELLAN Co., 8, Wells Street, Oxford Street, London.

BOMBAY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 12.

Reports to hand during the past week, regarding weather conditions, have been satisfactory from all districts, with the exception of the Punjab. Light soaking rain has fallen which has proved beneficial to the growing crops, especially cotton. While the average rainfall to date shows a large deficiency over a great portion of the country, the showers have been fairly well dispersed, and the general tone of advices received shows little cause of complaint about the condition of the crops. In the United Provinces, the rainfall has been heavy and fine weather is now wanted. From the Central Provinces, Berars, Khandesh, Gujerat and parts of Kathiawar good rain is reported this week, and the sky was cloudy and the whether cool, all crops are progressing satisfactorily. From the Southern districts also, the same reports are forwarded. In the Punjab, however, rain is urgently needed, and on the unirrigated land, crops are withering for want of it.

Our export trade in Bombay is slack, as usual at this period of the year. The heavy shipments of cotton to Europe earlier in the season, have left spinners there well supplied. The stock now available at Colaba, will be all required for local Mill consumption and current prices are considerably above the parity of sterling quotations. In new crops business is still largely confined to Surat bazaar transactions, though we hear of some purchases of early deliveries of Bengals on Mill account. In oilseeds, the enquiry for export is only moderate, and little business is reported. Wheat is firm and a large export trade from Karachi is still in active progress. In imports we have little change to record. The demand for piece goods remains on very moderate lines, though it is vaguely reported that a large forward business has lately been booked in Manchester on the basis of new crop quotations of American cotton.

The money market continues easy with an abundant supply of funds. Heavy imports of Silver bullion and the large allotments of Council Bills, make sterling exchange rather quicker, but there is no quotable change in rates. Eastern exchanges are slightly lower following the course of the silver market. Rupee Paper has given way about a quarter per cent. since last mail. Consols have been fluctuating rather heavily during the week, due, we are informed, to the issue of other gilt edged securities.

COTTON.

There has been a slight rally in prices of new crop Americans during the week under review. Advices were received in Bombay of rather too much rain in the growing belt, but it is evident that very little, if any, damage has been done, as quotations would have jumped considerably had such been the case. The splendid accounts of the growing crops to hand by the last inward mail can scarcely be maintained, and though the Bureau report issued last week confirmed such accounts to the end of July, some set backs are certain to take place this and next month. But unless some unforeseen serious damage occurs, a bumper crop may be expected, and with it, a return to a lower scale of prices all round. This, however, cannot take place until the harvest prospects are more assured than is possible at present. In the meanwhile the usual unreliable reports will be current and fluctuations are to be expected.

The following are the daily spot prices of Middling Americans in Liverpool and New York since last week:—

	Liverpool	New York.
Aug. 5th	6·02	10·45
" 6th	5·98	10·45
" 8th	5·94	10·55
" 9th	6·08	10·65
" 10th	6·02	10·65
" 11th	5·10	10·65

Futures in New York for December are 9·72 compared with 9·55 on the 4th instant, and in Liverpool, December January is quoted 5·27 against 5·15 on the same date.

In our local market, prices are stationary for ready cotton and transactions reported are on a moderate scale. The Mills are buying from hand to mouth, though some are still hampered by the dispute about the settlement of tare refered to in our last mail report. However, a meeting was held early this week, and an influential Committee appointed to discuss the questions in dispute, and a speedy settlement may be expected. There is a small enquiry for Japan, but we hear of little actual business in this quarter. For Europe there is practically no demand. Quotations for new crops fluctuate slightly from day to day. Some sales by export houses are reported to the bazaar. The crop prospects are favourable from all quarters, timely rain having fallen this week in several districts where it was most wanted.

We quote as follows for new crops:—

SEEDS AND WHEAT

A fair business was passing in oil seeds and the wheat market has been firm. The tone of linseed is quiet and the price has been reduced to Rs. 5-14 per cwt. with a moderate demand for export. Rapeseed was firmer and with a fair inquiry prices advanced about 2as. per cwt. At the close it is again quieter. Poppyseed was quiet throughout the week at Rs. 5-3 to Rs. 5-4 per cwt. and has declined on the close to Rs. 5-15 easterseed is also lower by 8 as. per candy, with little doing. There has been a moderate business passing [illegible] at Rs. 6-9 to Rs. 6-10 per cwt. [illegible] neglected with scarcely any enquiry for export. Wheat continues firm, following home advices, and there was rather more doing for export.

BHAWANI SHANKER'S TEMPLE.—The opening ceremony of this newly built temple at Worlee Koliwada will take place on Monday at 9 a.m.

BOMBAY SANITARY ASSOCIATION.—A lecture on the advantages of the Bombay Sanitary Association will be delivered by Khan Bahadur Abdur Razak bin Curtas J. P. in Urdoo at the Mahomedan Club near the Race Course, Mahaluxmi, to-morrow at 5 p. m. The public are cordially invited.

THE J. N. WADIA CHARITABLE DISPENSARY, MAHIM.—The number of patients treated in this dispensary during July was 923 adult males, 833 adult females, 878 children, total 2,634. The prevailing diseases were malarial fevers, digestive complaints, respiratory and skin affections.

FIRE AT KALA CHOWKEY ROAD.—At a quater to 9 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in a range of huts occupied by cartmen at Kala Chowkey Road and resulted in the destruction of about ten huts. The Chinchpoogley fire engine repaired to the scene and extinguished the fire in about half an hour. The damage is estimated at Rs. 300.

THE STUDENTS' BROTHERHOOD.—The Hon'ble Mr. Justice N. G. Chandavarkar will conduct the Sunday class on Sunday at 8-15 a.m., in the Prarthana Mandir. He will expound Tennyson's "In Memoriam" when all the college students are requested to attend. Professor N. G. Welanker will conduct the junior class in the Bhuleshwar School above Bhuleswar market, when he will expound the "Children books of Monks." All the upper class students are requested to attend. Dr. T. C. Khandwalla has forwarded a sum of Rs. 25 to form a library for the use of junior students.

CUSTOMS SOCIAL CLUB.—A very successful concert was given at the Customs House on Thursday night by the members of the "Customs Social Club." Amongst those who contributed songs to the programme were Miss Sherar, Miss Stewart and Messrs. Oliver, Taylor, Tyler and Jolly. Messrs. O'Donoghue, Sharman and Phillips were very successful in their trios for cornet, violin and piano, while Mr. De Costa brought down the house by his skilful solos on the banjo. The hall and stage were tastefully decorated with flags, and judging by the applause with which the items were received, it was evident that the efforts of the performers were appreciated.

MUSIC AT THE ESPLANADE.—By kind permission of Lieut.-Colonel S. J. Sarjant and Officers, the band of the 1st Battalion G. I. P. Ry. Volunteers will play the following programme of music, under the direction of Mr. A. Mallanlaine, Bandmaster, commencing at 5-45 p. m. to-day (weather permitting.)

Nankin will be closed at the General Post Office at 8 a.m., to-morrow.—A mail for Aden, Egypt and Europe consisting of letters and packets specially marked for transmission per Italian steamer Duca Balduino will be made up at the Bombay General Post Office for despatch to destination at 8 a.m., on Monday, the 15th instant.

BHOWNAGAR NOTES.—Our Bhownagar correspondent, writing on Thursday, says:—A sensational story comes to hand from Sihore where four newly born infants were found strangled to death and deserted by their mothers. Police enquiries are on foot.—Since Monday last, heavy clouds have been hanging promising heavy rain, but we get nothing beyond occasional drizzles.—The remaining four third class carriages have arrived at Wadhwan from the B. B. Railway, as the result of the purchase made by the Morvi railway. These are like the ordinary third class carriages running on B.G.,I.P., and R.-M railways, but each of them has four bunks over head, long enough for a man to sleep on, or put his luggage on. They have cost Rs. 1,600 each exclusive of hau age charges.

FOUND IN A QUARRY HOLE.—At the Morgue, yesterday, Mr. J. M. Payne, Acting Coroner for Bombay, conducted an inquest relative to the body of Mahadhoo Govind, a Hindu, aged forty whose body was found on the previous day in a quarry hole off Chinchpoogley. The evidence showed that the deceased was a merchant in a cotton mill and lived with his wife at Parel Road. He had been suffering with pain in his stomach. He left home on Tuesday last, saying he was going to purchase some bullocks, but did not return as a search was made for him but he was nowhere to be found. On Thursday afternoon, his wife heard an information being proclaimed by means of buttakes that the dead body of a man was found in a quarry hole of Chinchpoogley. She went to the quarry and on looking at the body, identified it as that of her husband Mahadhoo. There were no marks of violence on the body. The Jury returned a verdict that the deceased's body was found in a quarry hole, but under what circumstances he came by his death there was no evidence to show.

BURGLARIES IN BOMBAY.—Dr. Siripant Govind Ranady, who resides at Girgaum Back Road, has reported to the police the theft of property of the value of Rs. 333 from his bathroom during Wednesday night. The thief seemed to have entered the bedroom through a window, removed a tin-trunk and a leather bag into a passage of the house and there broke them open and extracted the property. Property valued at Rs. 405 was left in the passage by the thief. From enquiries it appears that the thief reached the window by climbing on the roof of the kitchen at the back of the house. The stolen property consisted of a silver watch, six Kruger sovereigns, a South African medal with Cape Colony bar, etc. The medal bears the complainant's name.—Jevan Jeeja, a Marwari, has made a report to the police that his shop at Nowroji Hill, 1st Lane, was broken into during Wednesday night and two boxes containing gold and silver ornaments of the aggregate value of Rs. 411 were stolen. The entrance into the place seems to have been effected by removing four iron bars of a window facing the sweepers gully at the back of the house. The boxes were subsequently found in the gully broken open and the contents missing.

BOMBAY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.—Mr. James Macdonald presided at a meeting of members of the Bombay Teachers' Association held last evening on the premises of the Alexandra Native Girls English Institution, Esplanade. Mr. K. B. Tamane read a paper with the title "An experimental primary Industrial School in Bombay" in which it was urged that the aim of primary education must be to render a man fit to perform some duty in life, which could procure him an honest and independent livelihood, or, in other words enable him to put money in his purse. The present system of education in their primary and secondary schools was, in the lecturer's opinion, one-sided and required modification. Side by side with the knowledge of the three R's, instruction should be given in the elementary principles of manual art. It was observed that, in this country, Indian children generally inherited a faculty for certain trades which their parents pursued, but that, owing to the one-sided character of the education imparted in primary schools, the children of agriculturists and artisans found no opportunities of cultivating the faculties with which they were endowed. The lecturer propounded a scheme of technical education suitable in his opinion, for the primary and lower-standard secondary schools. The proceedings terminated with votes of thanks to the lecturer and the chairman.

A YOUNG MAN'S HELPERS.—Before Mr. Karsondas Chabildas, Third Presidency Magistrate, Mr. Vellinker pleader, appeared in connection with the matter in which Mr. P. J. Clarke, formerly

THE WEB OF INDIAN LIFE.

To possess the gift of idealising the common incidents of life is to have at command an inexhaustible source of joy. This fairy gift Miss Noble—or to give her the title she has adopted in India, Sister Nivedita of Ramakrishna-Vivekananda—has been endowed with in a high degree. She dwelt in a Hindu quarter in Calcutta from one autumn to the rains of the following year, and then left, she does not say for how long, but imbued with the belief that the time had been spent in "a beautiful old world: which moved slowly, to a different rhythm from anything that one had known. It was a world in which a great thought or intense emotion was held as the true achievement, distinguishing the day as no deed could. It was a world in which men in loin-cloths, seated on door-sills in dusty lanes, said things about Shakespeare and Shelley that some of us would go far to hear. It was full of gravity, simplicity and the solid and enduring reality of great character and will." It has been said that the benefit we gain from anything is in exact proportion to the appreciation we bring to its contemplation, and certainly Sister Nivedita must have given generously of her imagination to reap so rich a harvest in kind. It is delightful to read in her book, "The Web of Indian Life" (William Heinemann,) how entirely she assimilated the ideas of the people among whom she dwelt for nine months, how she followed with keen interest their ceremonial observances, and the simple tasks of their daily domestic life, until she seems to have almost lost herself in ecstasy, in nirvana-like admiration of the meaning she discovered in each. "More and more" she says "as the spirit of Hindu culture became the music of life, did sunset and sunrise grow to be the events of my day. One learns in India to believe in what Maeterlinck calls 'the great active silence,' and in such moments of consciousness, descending like a plummet into the deeps of personality, and leaving even thought behind, seems to come upon the unmeasured and immeasurable. The centre of gravity is shifted. The seen reveals itself as what India declares it, merely the wreckage of the Unseen cast up on the shore of Time and Space."

Miss Noble's point of view is that of the poet who revels in his own beautiful conceits. She managed to 'désorienter' or rather 'désoccidenter' herself with complete success, and we should like to know if she means to return and live the rest of her life in the surroundings she has so lovingly and poetically described, or whether her mission is to preach their beauties and charm to an unthinking and severely practical western people, to urge them to strive to attain the "Hindu genius of idealism," which she has herself adopted as her second nature. Why should being transported to the East reveal so much more to her of the mystery of human perceptions than she learned in Britain that she must know more intimately, that she writes "living in a Calcutta lane, the powers of the imagination revive; the moon-setting becomes again Selene riding on the horse with veiled feet. Phœbus Apollo rising out of one angle of a pediment is a convincing picture of the morning sky, and the day comes when one surprises oneself in the act of talking with earth and water as conscious living beings." It is a revelation to most unthinking Westerns to be told that "the Indian beggar is the conserver of the folk-poetry of his country. . . . carrying the highest culture far and wide." Yet the knowledge of Hindu philosophy, for which the Punjabi women are remarkable is attributed, we are told, to the revival of charity towards the beggar under Runjeet Singh which naturally brought about talk with these man and thence instruction on the subjects with which they are familiar. Miss Noble makes the pictures of the life she witnessed in a specially privileged manner, interesting in the extreme, telling of the simple domestic tasks of the Hindu day, the quaint customs belonging to the different festivals and the religious duties that belong to every act. She portrays all these as being so reverently performed, for they are looked upon as the sacred hinges on which every Hindu day opens to the light of the sun (but it does not seem at all clear that Sister Nivedeta understood the full import of all she saw. For instance she was not allowed to enter her own kitchen, this being one of the conditions on which an old Hindu casteswoman consented to be her servant. That the reason was not made plain speaks volumes for the courtesy of the people among whom Miss Noble lived, and it should, if possible, increase her admiration to realise that, being an infidel, a no-caste person, her entry into her own kitchen would defile it for ever her ancient servant. she was probably all the happier in her ignorance and was less trammelled in attributing transcendental motives to all she saw. What she must have suffered when she asked for boiling water for her tea and saw her caste-domestic rush off to immerse herself in cleansing cold water while the kettle stood cooling all the time this preventive ceremony was being accomplished, only tea-drinkers can appraise. That of course, was a trifle, for she was surrounded with intellectual faces and Oriental leisure, and it was her happiness to minister to the grief that sometimes entered that abode of peace. The subjects touching Hindu life on which Miss Noble seeks to enlighten Western readers are many, the Mother is the first, and very beautiful does she show the Hindu conception of that relation to be, "the mother entering into the prison of a sweet dedication, that she may bestow upon her own child the mystery of breath, makes possible in his eyes by the perfect stainlessness of her devotion, the thought of that other life whose head touches the stars."

There is the Hindu woman as wife; her position and duties according with the highest ideal of the "religious life," as seen and often misunderstood in the West. "The ideal the wife, like the nun, pursues, is that of a vision that merges the finite in the infinite, making strong to mock at separation, or even at change." We are shown the docile, modest Hindu wife unselfish, giving simply "the overflowing fulness of a love that asks no return except the power of more abundant love." . . . . joyless creature so many deem her, but as an almost ethereal being adopting willingly and earnestly the austerity of life enjoined by her religion or Hindu custom; as the object of "unspeakable tenderness and delicacy" on the part of her family, and as "life ebbs, discipline gathers its perfect fruit, in lives stately and grave and dignified, for all their simplicity and bareness; in characters that are the hidden strength alike of village and of nation; in an ideal of sainthood justified; an opportunity of power created". What a different conception of the position of a widow from the popular one. It is a picture the accuracy of which we would like to be certain of. With all this enthusiasm Miss Noble is quite alive to the fact, on which she enlarges intelligently in her chapters on the "Oriental Woman" and "Woman in the National Life," that very little that deserves the name of Education has been attempted in Modern India," she insists, indeed that "the fundamental task of grasping and conveying the inspiration of the West must be performed by Easterns, for Eastern, and not by foreigners." Another indispensable factor in the making great of the people is still required "a sense of community among all classes;" the barriers of caste must be broken down, no longer must "the very name of India be a synonym for caste as opposed to nationality," and of this thread, apparently too strong for the rest of "The Web of Indian Life" Miss Noble writes much—and not without hope—of the wisdom of sacrificing it for the advantage of the whole. "At this moment," she says "a new suspicion is making itself heard, a suspicion that behind all these interpretations—the social reform, the political agitation, religious movements and economic grievances—there stands a greater reality, dominating and co-ordinating the whole, the Indian national idea, of which each is a part. It begins to be thought that there is a religious idea that may be called Indian, but it is of no single sect; that there is a social idea, which is the property of no caste or group; that there is a historic evolution, in which all are united; that it is the thing within all these which alone is to be called India." No wonder she asks "Has India to-day the hidden strength for such developments? What of the theocrastic conscience? What of warring religious convictions?" With these questions still unanswered Miss Noble closes her very beautifully written study of the idealised "Web of Indian Life."

MUNICIPAL BREAD.

If a Municipality may supply water, why not bread and milk? The question is from time to time urged upon public attention in England, but while British Municipalities are still content to restrict their operations as providers to water, lighting, baths and trams, Continental Municipalities do not hesitate to launch out into other trading enterprises. In Italy under the inspiration of a law passed in 1902, many of the Municipal bodies have gone a great distance in the direction of Municipal socialism. Several of them have undertaken the provision of bread for their citizens, not as a form of poor relief, but as a business enterprise with results which are claimed to be satisfactory. One of the latest authorities to embark on the business of bakers and bread suppliers is the Municipality of Palermo in Sicily. The Corporation began its trading enterprise by establishing a Municipal undertaking business and by a natural sequence passed on to cemeteries. Then it decided to give some attention to the living. In his latest report on the trade and commerce of Sicily, Mr Consul Churchill gives us the history of the Municipal bakery business. It was inspired by the determination to relieve the public from the effects of a private monopoly in the flour trade. Under the operation of the monopoly the prices of bread and macaroni, the staple food of the poorer classes, rose considerably. The fixing of standard rates for these commodities did not check the rise in prices but rather threatened to ruin the retailers. The Municipality, therefore, struck directly at the flour monopolists and undertook to supply flour to the bakers at a standard price and bread to be sold on commission. Laying their plans in advance they collected corn from all parts of the Island, and not only set up a flour mill but established a bakery of their own. The latter was opened in March last year; military emergency ovens were soon added and the whole bakery turned out about 31,000 lbs. of bread daily. In May a private flour mill capable of turning out fifty tons of flour in 24 hours was acquired together with two bakeries able to make 28,000 lbs. of bread. The Municipal bakeries actually placed upon the market 44,000 lbs. of bread daily or a supply sufficient for one-sixth of the population of 325,000. The result was a victory for the Municipality over the flour monopolists The local authority lowered the price of bread a halfpenny per pound and maintained the standard rates which it considered fair to the public and to the trade.

Without careful preparation in advance and drawing on their own resources for the direction of the new business, the results would not have been so successful. Municipal officials were detailed for various branches of the work and even the police were converted into bread sellers, being posted in huts in the principal streets to retail the Municipal loaves. Naturally, this last measure was not entirely popular; but the entire enterprise, as might be expected, was supported by the Socialists who are numerous and another point in its favour was that most of the persons employed in the Municipal mills and bakeries were supplied by the local Labour Bureau. Workmen who drew wages from other mills or bakeries, suffered little or no loss by the Municipal competition, since by the persons employed and the reduction of prices the change increased rather than diminished the consumption of bread. But while the Municipality is so satisfied with the results that additions to both branches of the business are contemplated and while the poor get their bread twenty per cent. cheaper, everybody is not content with the departure. It would be strange if the case were otherwise. People are asking if the Municipal bread is being supplied at a loss? The authorities declare that the mill and bakery accounts show that during the last six months a profit of more than £1,600 has been made. There is no reason why the enterprise should not be profitable, but it is not clear that full allowance has been made for the fact that the concerns have been run by officials whose salaries are paid from other sources. Those who oppose competition of this sort with private enterprise, when confronted with the successful results, invariably point to exceptional conditions of management, forgetful that the true explanation of success is to be found in the absence of the definite commercial spirit which seeks increasing returns. Municipal trading is one form of the reaction against excessive profit making, and in Sicily it has received popular approval largely in consequence of the harm done by monopolists and the unwise grant of concessions.

ANTI-PLAGUE INOCULATION.

"The Hindus have thirty-five crores of gods and their opinions are as diverse." This statement made by a speaker at a meeting in Lahore seems adequately to sum up the mental attitude of the people in regard to inoculation against plague as well as in reference to most other things. For all that may be said to the contrary, the impression created by the Mulkowal disaster survives and the people of the Punjab cannot be persuaded to accept inoculation freely. Recently Mr. C. J. Halliday, the Deputy Commissioner of Lahore, issued a pamphlet embodying his views on plague preventive measures. He invited the heads, chowdris, medical practitioners, heads of religious associations, and other influential people to read the pamphlet and then meet to discuss the case for and against inoculation which he advocated. The meeting was held the other day and the most dominant views were [illegible] Mr. Halliday was [illegible] ed natives and lawyers were opposed to inoculation. But he announced that, as some of the old citizens and reises had promised their co-operation, he would follow suggestions that had been made by two medical men who favoured inoculation. These suggestions were that sanitation should not be neglected, that inoculation should not be entrusted to inexperienced hands, that the individual's health and constitution should be inquired into to see if he were physically fit for the operation, and that the bottles of serum received from the laboratory should be accompanied by a certificate that they had been examined and were perfectly pure. The adoption of these measures could have been decided upon without the aid of a public meeting, for the general discussion has but served to reveal the absence of popular confidence in anti-plague inoculation. It is clear that the Punjab authorities cannot hope to inaugurate any extensive campaign against plague during the next epidemic season on any other lines than evacuation and disinfection and of the two, experience in Bombay and elsewhere proves the former to be the most effective measure of prevention that can be adopted.

THE NAVAL BATTLE.

PORT ARTHUR FLEET SCATTERED.

A DASH FOR SAFETY.

EXPLOIT IN CHIFU HARBOUR.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, AUGUST 11.

Reuter (Chifu) wires that the Russian destroyer which came from Port Arthur, named the Rechitelni, has been dismantled in compliance with the demands of the Chinese Admiral.

The Russian fleet left Port Arthur in accordance with the imperative orders of Admiral Skrydloff.

Mr. M. Hayashi, Consul for Japan in Bombay, received the following telegram yesterday afternoon from his Government :—

According to reports hitherto received the Russian squadron emerged from Port Arthur, was attacked by our fleet at a point south of Yentao, and was dispersed.

The Askold, Novik and another cruiser and a destroyer took refuge in Kiaochow, and another destroyer in Chefoo on the 11th instant.

The enemy's five battleships, one cruiser probably the Diana, a hospital ship and several destroyers seem to have regained Port Arthur on the 11th instant. Our fleet is believed to be undamaged.

LONDON AUGUST, 12.

Reuter wires from Chifu to-day that two large Japanese torpedo boat destroyers entered the harbour there in the night without lights and anchored a quarter of a mile from the Rechitelni. A boarding party then boarded and dismantled the Rechitelni. Firing of small arms took place during which one Russian was wounded.

Daybreak showed a third Japanese towing the Russian out of harbour and all have now disappeared.

The Japanese Consul asserts that the Japanese are ignorant of the dismantling.

Reuter's correspondent with General Kuroki wires on the 11th that there is every indication that the Russians are preparing to give battle in front of Liao-yang where they are constructing new defences,

Reuter from St Petersburg says that a commission of high officials has been appointed to examine the position of the Volunteer fleet from the standpoint of international law.

Telegrams dated Colombo August 12th state :—The strength of the Russian garrison at Port Arthur does not exceed twelve thousand men, while the Japanese forces which are closing in on the place, under Field-Marshal Yamagata and General Nogi, out-number the defenders by ten to one, and include a large proportion of old soldiers who took the stronghold in 1894 from the Chinese.

Stirring news from the beleaguered stronghold is expected daily.

Tokio wires a Japanese gunboat, while sweeping off Tungwantan, got a rope entangled with her screw, and drifted towards Swainson Point.

The Russian forts and gunboats fired on her and the destroyers discharged topedoes.

Another Japanese gunboat, which came to her rescue, received the shells intended for the helpless vessel.

After an hour's fight the gunboats escaped with a loss of three killed and eleven wounded.

The Japanese will permit neutral ships to go to Niuchwang, and steamers are already on their way there from Shanghai.

The "Knight Commander" Case.

LORD LANSDOWNE'S VIEWS.

LONDON, AUGUST 11.

In the House of Lords, to-night, Lord Lansdowne said we could not admit that the destruction of the Knight Commander was justified or that the proceedings of the Prize Court were valid. Such measures affect most injuriously British commerce. His impression, however, was that despite the untoward incidents which had occurred, both Governments would really be glad to discover reasonable means of settling the difficulties.

He was glad to say that the language of the Russian Government in reply to the British representations justified the hope that the destruction of neutral prizes is unlikely to be repeated, although he could not, he said, announce anything tantamount to a distinct settlement.

THE AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK.

GLOOMY PROSPECT IN BOMBAY.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, AUGUST 12.

Special telegraphic reports showing the agricultural position on the 9th instant are published, and are of great interest in view of the deficiency of the monsoon rains over a wide area of India.

Madras reports that, though the dry first crop is deficient everywhere except in the Circars, the general prospects are good or fair and the local Government considers there is no cause for anxiety.

The Bombay Government, on the other hand, describes a state of affairs which is already becoming serious. In Sind, fodder is scarce and the people are migrating elsewhere. In Cutch, forty per cent of the normal area is unsown, while on the sown area crops will fail unless there is rain in a fortnight. In the Deccan the early crops are beginning to wither and in the eastern subdivisions of Nasik and Poona from thirty-five to eighty per cent of the normal area is still unsown. Fodder is deficient in Sind, Cutch, Surat and also in four districts of the Deccan and in the Karnatac and the Kolhapur-Bijapur area.

The Punjab reports that, except in the Submontane districts and the districts of Rohtak, Gurgaon, Delhi and Karnal, there have been only scattered showers and the land dependent upon rainfall will not be sown unless rain be received at once. The canals, however, are running well. The Punjab Government adds :—It is fortunate that rain has fallen in south-eastern districts, where it was more wanted, as the rest of the Province had a bumper year in 1903-04 and is protected by canals. There is not at present any ground for anxiety. Rain in Hissar has been in defect and badly distributed, but the district had a very good kharif harvest last year, and falls of rain have been reported at Hissar in the last few days, the effect of which cannot yet be gauged. Stocks are ample and prices low and steady. The North-West Frontier Province Administration state that more rain is wanted everywhere except in Hazara, adding that prices are now rising owing to deficient rain in the Punjab and brisk export to the sea board.

The Rajputana Administration report that no immediate apprehension exists regarding any part of that Province.

The Central India Administration state that agricultural prospects are generally fair to good, but the present break in the rains, if continued, will cause serious injury to the crops and fodder in Indore State and to the crops in parts of Malwa and Bhopawar Agencies.

The Central Provinces Government reports that though monsoon rainfall is below average in all the districts except Sambalpur, its distribution has been generally good and prospects have much improved in cotton, and jari tracts of Nagpur and Berar and are now good everywhere except in Nimar.

The Bengal Government say that prospects in their province are generally favourable and reports of the United Provinces and Assam Administrations are also optimistic in spite of the damage caused in the early part of the season by excessive rain in the Surma valley and Lower Assam.

The Coorg Administration also describes its agricultural prospects as generally favourable.

The Burma Government describes the prospects in the lower province as excellent and in the upper province as good upon the whole. H. H. Sir Hugh Barnes adds that he sees no reason at present to anticipate any general failure of crops or scarcity in any part of Upper Burma. Stocks of grain are reported as ample everywhere in Burma. About one-third of last year's rice crop is still stored in many centres in Lower Burma in expectation of better prices. In almost all the markets throughout Burma, prices are slightly below normal.

It follows, taking India and Burma as a whole, that, while there may be distress in parts of the Bombay Presidency, Deccan and Punjab, there is no reason to apprehend any widespread calamity. The general lowness of prices is an especially encouraging feature

THE DURAND FOOTBALL TOURNAMENT.

The entries for the Durand Football Tournament, which takes place at Simla next month are now coming in. The Corps which have so far entered, are the Gordon Highlanders, the Black Watch, the South Staffordshires, and the Royal Scots Fusiliers.

THE SUPREME LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, AUGUST 12.

Lord Ampthill presided at the Legislative Council this morning when both the small Bills already advised were introduced. The Bill to amend the Indian Emigration Act of 1883 is purely a formal measure which extends to Karachi and any other port. The Government may specify the rules regarding the Emigration of persons from India.

Sir Edmond Elles explained that the object of the Bill to amend the Indian Articles of War was to provide for the confirmation of the findings and sentences of courts-martial in the case of persons subject to the Indian Articles of War Act V of 1869, who are serving in any place other than India, the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man. The opportunity has also been taken to repeat the second appendix which is not at present strictly in accordance with the Articles.

The Council then adjourned till the 9th September.

BUBONIC DISEASE AMONG ANIMALS.

IS IT PLAGUE?

BANGALORE, AUGUST 12.

An outbreak of bubonic disease with fatal results having recently occurred among the wild animals in the Mysore jungles, the Government deputed the State Bacteriologist to investigate the circumstance. The report submitted says that four wild elephants were found dead in the Kakankote forest and also one bison, five sambhur and deer and other animals. Cattle are also dying from a similar disease. They develop buboes and die suddenly. About eighteen pairs of draught bullocks have already died in the neighbourhood of the infected forest as also several domesticated elephants used for timber dragging purposes in the same jungle. Subsequently one of the Mysore Palace elephants caught the infection and died and three others were attacked in the same yard. The Government have recognised that the disease among cattle is a very serious matter for the agricultural classes and explicit instructions have been given to the Revenue Officers to segregate all healthy cattle far from the village and in as small groups as possible when an outbreak occurs.

THE DEATH OF DR. MURDOCH.

THE GREAT MISSIONARY OF S. INDIA.

MADRAS, AUGUST 12.

There passed away here on Wednesday night Dr. Murdoch, whose name was familiar in Madras for half a century, not only in Madras but throughout India and Ceylon. Thousands will learn with regret that one who did so much for India will no longer work on her behalf.

Dr. Murdoch, came to the East in 1844, his first work being in connection with education. Under the Ceylon Government, while he was visiting Mission stations during the holidays, his attention was drawn to the great want of school books and other Christian literature. He gave up teaching in order to supply this want from that time, namely, the production and dissemination of literature for the people of India and Ceylon. Shortly afterwards he became a missionary in the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, though he was never ordained. Dr. Murdoch came to Madras in 1854 and formed a School Book and Tract Society. In 1858 the Christian Vernacular Education Society (now the Christian Literature Society) was formed as a memorial of the Indian mutiny. Dr. Murdoch became its first paid Indian Secretary and resigned active duties of that office in February last year. He was for great many years Secretary and General Superintendent of the Religious Tract Society's work in India and was for fifty years the chief moving force in the production and circulation of Christian literature. The University of Glasgow conferred upon him the degree of L. L. D. and the Government of India, the Kaisar-i-Hind silver medal, when it was instituted in 1902 and the gold medal a few months ago, the Viceroy and Lord Ampthill sending him congratulations. The Madras Government appointed him to a seat on the Senate of the Madras University. The Missionary brethren presented him an address on the Jubilee of his service in the East at the close of 1894. Dr. Murdoch had attained the great age of 85.

The funeral took place last evening and was attended by a very large gathering of representatives of all the Missions and Societies with which the deceased was connected.

SUIT AGAINST THE MADRAS RAILWAY COMPANY.

MADRAS, AUGUST 11.

The further hearing of the case in which Kalidas Lukshmi Chand and another seek to recover damages of a lakh of rupees from the Madras Railway Company, owing to the death of their father in the recent Mangapatnam disaster was resumed yesterday. The whole day was devoted to the examination of witnesses to prove the deceased's status in the firm of Row Chund Ujam Chund, jewellers in Bombay, and the income he received as such. Mr. A. St. J. Church, Madras Manager of the Oriental Life Insurance Company, was also examined and gave evidence from data placed before him as to the amount of annuity, his Company would be prepared to give on a life like that of the deceased.

His lordship reserved judgment.

HISTORIC MEMORIALS IN MADRAS.

Among other estimates sanctioned by the Madras Government are Rs. 1,900 for the erection of memorial tablets in certain buildings of historical interest and Rs. 5,390 for additions to the General Post and Telegraph Office, Madras.

August 20th, Saturday—Arrive in Poona, at 6-30 a.m.

His Excellency will be accompanied by Mr. J. H. DuBoulay, I.C.S., Private Secretary; Lieut.-colonel R. Owen, Military Secretary, and Captain E. H. Bayford, Aide-de-Camp.

ENTERIC fever is still prevalent in Simla and some cases are reported among the boys at Bishop Cotton's School. This is in spite of the strictest supervision over the food and milk supply and the closest attention to sanitary arrangements. It would seem that the disease has appeared in the station in almost epidemic form.

FOLLOWING the Alake of Abeokuta, the Khedive of Egypt, the Maharajah of Jhalawar, and others of our interesting connexions, there has come to England the able Rajah of Rajpipla, a Hindu ruler who has so far been but little heard of in London, but whose name and State have always been familiar to our friends in Bombay, writes a Home contemporary. Rajpipla only covers 1,500 square miles, carrying a population of 120,000, 60 per cent. of whom, roughly counting, are Bhils. But Rajpipla is of enormous importance to Cambay, for it is in a way the Kimberley of that Eastern Amsterdam, while wealthy Bombay plays the part of London to both. Among the mountains —and it is nearly all mountains—in the picturesque little State are the famous mines from which poure forth a regular stream of agates, onyx, cornelian bloodstones, and all the chalcedonic forms for "cutting" in industrious Cambay and subsequent sale in Bombay and Bond-street.

THE POST OFFICE FRAUD CASE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, AUGUST 12.

The case against Dattatray Joshi on the charge of opening a registered letter sent from Jenur to Ebrahim Habibullah and Company, Bombay and extracting currency notes therefrom of the value of Rs. 30, was resumed to-day before Major Taylor, officiating Cantonment Magistrate. Some further evidence was recorded from which it appeared that Joshi was on duty at the Kirkee post office on the night of 6th till the morning of 7th June last and that he had despatched the registered letter which contained the currency notes of the value of Rs. 60 altogether. He took leave on the 13th of June and went to Jenur and paid two currency notes of Rs. 10 each besides Rs. 19 in cash to a creditor named Gopal. On his arrest in connection with a charge of abstracting another currency note for Rs. 100 which was made the subject of a separate charge and for which he has been committed to the Sessions, Gopal took the two notes to Jenur, Chief Constable, telling him that as he had heard that Joshi was arrested for abstracting the currency notes to see whether they formed part of the abstracted notes. It turned out that one was a note that ought to have reached Habibullah. On receiving information from Kirkee, the Chief Constable, Jenur, forwarded the notes which form part of the present charge. Prosecution have five more witnesses to examine, three from Bombay and two from Jenur. The Magistrate has adjourned further hearing till 20th instant.

CHEATING BY A MERCHANT.

ACCUSED CONVICTED.

Judgment was delivered in the case in which a merchant named Bachappa Hussoo of Dudin was tried before Mr. Fry, Sessions Judge of Sholapur and two assessors. The charges against the accused were cheating and forgery. The Public Prosecutor of Sholapur, Mr. S. W. Pai B. A., L. L. B., who was instructed by Inspector Waidler of the Railway police, appeared to prosecute. From the evidence adduced in the case, it appeared that on the 14th of May last, the accused consigned six bags of linseed from Dadni to Wari Bunder, Bombay, in some others person's name and received the receipt in the usual way. He afterwards alleged the receipt to sixty bags and sold same consignement to a merchant of Sholapur from whom he obtained Rs. 330 as the price of the consignment. The accused pleaded not guilty and also denied having gone to the railway station that day and he also endeavoured to prove an alibi. The prosecution produced a number of witnesses including the merchant from Bombay, to state truth of the facts narrated.

The two assessors found that in their opinion the accused was guilty and the Sessions Judge agreeing with them sentenced the accused to two years rigorous imprisonment.

FOOTBALL IN BOMBAY.

CASUALS vs. UNITED SERVICES.

A MATCH under the Rugby code was played yesterday afternoon on the Cooperage ground when the Casuals opposed a team representative of the United Services. In the first half of the game the Casuals had matters mostly their own way and were able to score a goal. Shortly after resumption they succeeded in registering a try. But after this the Services considerably improved and completely altered the aspect of the game. They went on scoring and at the close had registered two goals and a try and ran out winners. Scores :—

United Services.....2 Goals 1 Try (13 pts.)
Casuals.....1 Goal 1 Try (8 pts.)

AHMEDABAD NOTES.

AN Ahmedabad correspondent writing on Thursday says :—After having had no rain for over three weeks we had a few cents the day before yesterday. Once more the sky is clear and all signs of immediate rains have disappeared. The cotton plants in the district as well as other crops are still flourishing, but unless we have a few inches of rain by the next week, things may take a serious turn. With this unusual weather the health of the city seems to be again getting unsatisfactory. Stray cases of plague are reported; and the weekly mortality returns are on the increase.

The people of the city were naturally excited on the Municipality declaring to raise a further loan of Rs. 3 lakhs and the excitement is likely to take a concrete form now that the revised list of the house-assessments is out. The annual rental of every house is increased by at least half and people have come to understand the trick, and Municipality intends playing on them. New taxation may require the sanction of the district officials and is sure to make the Corporators unpopular. This increase, it is said, is intended to indirectly make up the income necessary to meet the increased expenses without levying a new tax. It is said that a Rate-Payers as well as Property Owners' Associations will soon be organized to oppose this measure.

It is said that Mr. Gopalshanker V. Bhacnech of the British Revenue Service will succeed R. B. Tricumlal Dinanath as Dewan of Dharampur.

The Gujerat Vaisnya Sabha which has succeeded in enlisting a goodly number of members from all parts of the District, intends sending a pupil to Mr. Gujjar's laboratory and sending one to Japan after the work is over. It has opened a sewing and embroidery class for women in the Manipole mohalla in the midst of the city.

Mr. Pranlal Kishavlal Lakhia, Chief Constable Dholera has been appointed Police Prosecutor vice Mr. Nagindi Vonilal Desai B. A. L. L. B. who is appointed Subordinate Judge in the Deccan.

MR. HERBERT CHAMBERLAIN, bequeathing his Australian estate to his widow, has reminded us that the Chamberlain family has always been fond of investing its superfluous cash in the South Indian Indus ries Association, founded seventeen years ago by the Countess of Aberdeen. The Queen and the Princess of Wales have long been very practical patrons of the beautiful Irish handiwork. These materials can be used for the very latest and most beautiful of Paris and Vienna fashions. The new embroidered Irish linens are in a softer and lighter make this summer, and are admirable for seaside frocks. The single plain linen skirt, to be worn with a variety of embroidered shirts, also retains its popularity. Whatever style is selected for these useful skirts, it must be remembered that the essential quality is "cut," otherwise the first wash will ruin their appearance.

Every woman is acquainted with the hopeless failure of the seams of the seven or nine gored skirt after washing and ironing. This season the modistes have therefore evolved two models for the summer linen skirt, the seams of which retire modestly into the background. One skirt model has a front gore continued in the form of a pointed up yoke round the back, where a mitred strap makes for neatness and finish. This yoke, which is guiltless of seam or dart, is stitched at the edge on a box-plaited skirt. The yoke is turned back over a strip of linen cut on the straight about an inch wide at the narrowest part. The firmness thus afforded not only preserves the skirt in time of washing, but strengthens the outline of the yoke. The second model is especially suitable to the soft waves of linen which make up into delightful skirts to wear with the embroidered shirts and blouses. It is on the full, six round length, gathered at the top with a scalloped border. On the lower part it is piped with linen. Buttons set at intervals in simulated button-holes hold the border in place. When the gored skirt is used the flare begins higher up than we have been accustomed to see it lately. In making carefully tack a piece of tape behind each seam before stitching. This precaution not only lends durability, but gives the stitching a better effect. To the athletic skirt, if the hem is turned up on the right side and a piece of tape inserted on which to stitch the required number of rows there is nothing in which the heel of the boot can possibly catch.

Other linen skirts, made with alternate bands of tucks and embroidery, are smart models. The length of the skirt varies according to time and place. The walking skirts clear the ground about an inch, while the sporting skirt falls just to the ankle. Many of the embroidered Irish linens are of a becoming cream tint, and look as though they are unbleached These embroidered robes can also be obtained in colour. A pretty seaside model is a red and white linen, the coatee made on a modified Directoire plan. Inverted box plaits fitting closely at the waist, flaring out at the knee and held in position by four buttons, two on each pleat, buttoned with white cord, form the skirt. The little blouse bodice is gathered at the shoulders and waist, and hangs slightly full over a belt of red kid. The Directoire revers, which extend in a graduated outline to this belt, are of white embroidered linen, trimmed with buttons in triple groups. The vest closes with small pearl buttons.

The best dressed women are adopting for general service wear the severe tailor-made in the Irish tweeds. The long-basqued jackets are frequently tight-fitting and close, with a single row of buttons immediately down the front. The basques are rounded at the hips, and fall in a graceful effect round the figure. The waist in some models is marked by a seam, but most of the jackets are cut like a long coat, the semi-waist giving a basqued effect. Other models show a waistcoat of pique or bright silk. A quaint effect is produced by the combination of mousseline and cloth, especially when used sparingly on an entire cloth gown.

It is essentially a lace year and Ireland, with its Limerick, Carrickmacross, and beautiful crochet laces, has been able to meet the demand made on her resources. The tea-gowns which have blossomed out with the roses of summer have revived some of the most beautiful of forgotten fashions. Some are stately and magnificent garments of rich brocade, made in sweeping lines and adorned with rare lace and marvellous needlework. Others are soft and dainty, made of lace and chiffon and beautiful muslins. An effective tea-gown is a full gown of flame pink chiffon, covered by a short one of Irish lace to some distance below the knees. The lace gown is finished with a flounce and a wide insertion edged with ruching. Down the front are five large bows of flame-pink velvet, which offer a soft contrast to the delicate drapery of the lace and glow of the mousseline beneath it. Irish lace and Indian mull are a happy combination for frocks for warm summer days—with skirt and blouse accordion-pleated, both being overlaid with bands of Irish crochet lace.

For those who can wear it, the twisted rope of wide satin ribbon knotted at intervals, all round the head is the newest way of decorating the hair. This arrangement enhances the grace of the head, but it is not so universally becoming as the half wreaths, with the tapering ends which are generally worn or the more airy arrangements, in half-wreath shape, of gauze dragon-fly wings with an ornament in the centre. These dragon-fly wings are far too full-fledged for a dragon fly, for they stretch their gauzy lengths for several inches long each side of the wire frame of the curve which they follow. Six pink wings three on each side, have their beauty accentuated by a cluster apple blossoms in the centre. White wings are very retty spangled over with small gold spangles, and have a small rosette of white tulle in the middle, while black gauze wings are spangled with either silver or gold, and sometimes have a small aigrette of gold or silver tinsel in the centre, and sometimes one of feathers.

Every woman has ribbon ornaments for the hair, more or less elaborate, according to the occasion on which they are to be worn. Dainty rosettes of long loops are made of a number of loops of gauze-ribbon in soft colours. The idea in wearing so many of these ornaments is to get a note of becoming colour to the face to offset the effect of a white gown, for white gowns are worn morning, noon, and night now. The flush of a pink rosette, the glow of a red one, the bright gleam of a yellow ornament or the warm tone of some other colour lends a brightness to the wearer of a white frock, and the woman of taste selects the colour that will best bring out the beauties of her complexion, the lustre and tint of her eyes, and the warm or bright lights in her hair. Some of the ornaments are of numbers of short ends of narrow satin ribbon, with tiny bows in the top of each end. They are crowded together, and give something of the effect of a cluster of fragile flowers and something of that of little butterflies. Another ornament has loops of narrow ribbon tied in a knot in the centre of the loops, with one short end, of a

IRISH LINENS AND LACE.

WOMEN AND SPORT.

LONDON, JULY 22.

ALL predictions to the contrary those dainty blouses in cool and semi-transparent materials continue to be worn all through the summer. The modern Englishwoman has too much regard for her own ease and comfort lightly to abandon the wearing of so delightful a garment as the summer blouse. The only restriction that fashion has ventured to hint at, so far, is that the blouse and the skirt must in future have more than a nodding acquaintance with each other. They must be of the same shade of colour exactly, if possible, even although they may be made in widely different materials. Of two very pretty designs for dainty summer blouses, one is carried out in soft muslin, in a pale shade of biscuit colour with white embroidered spots, and a trimming of finely pleated white glace silk. This kilting of silk outlines the draped muslin fichu which is arranged with sash ends at the back, and it appears again upon the deep frill of embroidered muslin with which the puffed sleeves are finished at the elbow. A motif of real Bruges lace applique adorns the transparent muslin vest, and the waistbelt is of turquoise blue Louisine silk ribbon. A very quaint Directoire bonnet in fine white chip goes with this gown. It is lined inside with turquoise blue taffeta, closely gaged, and trimmed round the front of the brim with pale pink roses, rose foliage, and white marguerites. The strings are of Pompadour chine ribbon, with blurred flowers and leaves, in pale shades of blue, pink, and green, on an ivory white background.

The second blouse is made in pale green Ninon de soie, and worn with a full but perfectly plain skirt of pale green taffetas mousseline, and a deep waistbelt of darker green soft kid drawn through a buckle of pale blue enamel. The transparent yoke, which is made in quite a new shape, is of cream-coloured soft muslin, with insertions of open-work embroidery carried out in broderie anglaise fashion, like the Madeira work of a bygone day. Little detached motifs of Cluny lace applique, worked with pale green threads, also adorn this pretty yoke. The full sleeves are gathered so that they form three distinct puffs, while at the wrist they are drawn into pointed cuffs of lace and embroidery. A large hat carried out in black crinoline goes with this pale green blouse. The crown is entirely hidden under soft draperies of white net spotted with black chenille, while some pale green ostrich-tips are grouped in quite a novel way, so that they form a kind of ruche of feathers round the crown.

Every woman is now familiar with the beautiful lace, the exquisite embroidered linen, and the sturdy dress fabrics sold under the auspices of the Irish Industries Association, founded seventeen years ago by the Countess of Aberdeen. DEVELOPMENTS IN IRISH POLITICS.

A "CENTRE" PARTY.

I have it on good authority from Mr. O'Brien's constituency in Cork, writes the Dublin correspondent of the "Pall Mall Gazette" that it is not unlikely that within the next two months the father of the United Irish League will be back in the thick of public life in Ireland. It may be unnecessary to say that Mr. O'Brien retired on account of the hostility shown to the "Dunraven Treaty" and the Land Purchase Act, which he was mainly instrumental in bringing about. Since he went into obscurity the people of Connaght and Munster have over and over again declared that without Mr. O'Brien there can be no fight and at headquarters here in Dublin this is known to be a fact, since for months past the sums of money finding their way to the coffers from the South and West have been steadily diminishing. Mr. O'Brien has promised to write a few letters explaining his position, and my information, which I believe is thoroughly trustworthy, is that when he has unbosomed himself he intends to return to Parliamentary life, careless of the opinions of his fellows, and determined to do what he regards as his best for Ireland on independent lines.

THE "CENTRE" PARTY.

Germane to this subject is my statement of last week that a centre party will be formed in Ireland at an early date. The prime leaders are Mr. Adam S. Findlater and Sir John Nutting, who believe that a strong party can be made up among the broad-minded men of each party, whose principal care will be the progress of Ireland. In latter days Mr. O'Brien has endeavoured to show that the advancement of the country is his chief aim, and it cannot be gainsaid that he has at least two provinces at his back. Many leading Unionists with whom I have spoken on the subject agree that Mr. O'Brien would be the best man to be at the head of affairs. He is not of the so-called "ascendancy class," and he cannot see eye to eye with the Irish party. He is for a middle course, and he has a large following. Although Sir John Nutting was largely instrumental in having Sir Horace Plunkett unseated, he has now been converted to Sir Horace's side. The ex-member for South Dublin would be a splendid adjutant. Leaving aside the actual work of the Agricultural Department, he has gained the confidence of the peasants in all parts of the provinces, and his name stands for a good deal. With the converted Mr. O'Brien at the head of affairs and Sir Horace Plunkett, Sir John Nutting, and Mr. Adam Findlater helping to hold the wheel, the balance of opinion is in favour of a middle party that would have a following that would have to be reckoned with in the British Parliament.

AGRICULTURISTS AGAINST HOME RULE.

In gauging the possibilities, it must be remembered that the agriculturists throughout the country are really dead against Home Rule, however much they may applaud the village speakers as a matter of policy. They have been led out of the wilderness into the land of promise supplied by the Purchase Act, and they are not at all willing to go back into the region of want and thirst by helping to build up a "House" in Dublin. The Englishman makes a mistake when he thinks that all Irishmen long for Home Rule. As a matter of fact, the peasant class, who are vastly in the majority, are dead against it. Give them their land as cheaply as they can get it, and allow them to make the best of what they have, and they are more than contented to be under English rule. The new Act gives them their hearts' desire, and they are not by any means in favour of placing their destinies in the hands of a Dublin Parliament. It is the general opinion among the broad-minded Tories and Nationalists that, when the middle-course party is formed, considerably more than one-third of the people will flock to its standards. The watchword of the party is to be "Progress," and it will strive after substance, not shadow.

A NEW SPINNING-RING.

The American Spinning-ring and Traveller Company have now at work in a cotton mill at Middleton a new invention which is known as the "Harrington Ring Frame." The chief feature of the frame is the traveller, which is said to differ from its predecessors in that when at work it is suspended like the coffin of Mahomet, between heaven and earth. After a close examination of this traveller one is forced to the conclusion that this, or something closely resembling it actually takes place. The ring is made in three parts. The first consists of a thin steel hoop, which is bent up at the lower edge to form a trough-shaped flange. Over this hoop a ring of wood, previously saturated with lubricating material for the traveller is pressed and clipped by the flange. A second steel hoop is flanged at the top, and fits inside the first one. A space is left between the upper flange and the wooden ring for the traveller to work in. The traveller itself is a ring of flat steel with an eye or goose-neck rising from the rim, whilst a broadened portion on the opposite side serves as a balance to the eye. When stationary the traveller rests upon the wooden ring, but when at work the pull of the yarn lifts it slightly above the wood, but not high enough to make contact with the upper steel flange—hence it appears to float in the air.

One hundred and sixty such rings and travellers are fitted upon one side of a frame at the Middleton mill; the other side carries a similar number of rings and travellers of the ordinary type. The spindles on both sides have been in work upwards of sixteen years, and have not been altered in any way for the purpose of these experiments. When the writer saw the frame it was spinning 22's twist from 3 1-2 hank roving. The front roller made 177 revolutions per minute and the spindles 10,800 revolutions per minute. The rings were 1 5-8 in diameter, and the lift of the rail was 6in. Moreover, 30's, 28's, 26's, 24's, and 22's have been spun at the same mill with the same travellers and without ambiguities; and elsewhere yarns from 30's to 15's have been spun successfully without any change of traveller. The same ring and travellers have been in constant use for seven months without either being appreciably worn.

A comparison of the yarn spun upon opposite sides of the same machine, where with the exception of the rings and travellers, all conditions where precisely similar, showed the yarn spun on the new plan to be more uniform in diameter, less hairy, and stronger than the other. According to the count spun this yarn sustained a greater load by from 4lb. to 8lb. per lea than similar yarn from the opposite side of the same machine; 28's yarn was 6lb. per lea stronger while from 28's to 22's yarn the average was 5lb. stronger. The difference is probably due to more ends of fibres becoming twisted into the thread. A comparison of two full bobbins taken from opposite sides of the machine showed that one was more tightly wound than the other, and that from 10 per cent to 12 per cent more yarn could be put upon a bobbin spun under the new conditions than could be put upon one spun under old conditions. This of course implies that the thread was more strained during spinning and winding but as the strain was more uniformly distributed the number of breakages occurring under the new conditions was considerably less than under the old ones. The inventor (Mr. W. J. Holden, of Boston, U.S.A.) claims that his traveller enables him so run spindles faster and to obtain an increased production of 25 per cent. over present practice. In the Middleton experiment, however the speeds given above are those normally run in the mill. The inventor has wisely elected to test his ring and traveller under conditions precisely similar to those that obtain where ordinary rings and travellers are used. For these tests the same grades of cotton, the same sank roving, the same machinery and supervision were used. Up to the present the results have been very satisfactory, but whether or no under more extended trials and more varied conditions defects will develop remains to be seen. If, as is claimed, this contrivance will enable better yarns to be spun and will increase the productiveness of ring-spinning machinery it will be welcomed by all concerned, and the success of the invention will be assured. T. W. F. in the "Manchester Guardian."

MAMMON v. GOD: PIUS TENTH'S DECREE.

Pius X. may be a "reformer"—in fact, he is writes a Rome correspondent; but like all innovators he is raising a hornets' nest about his ears which must sting considerably, and will be sure to give him much trouble befor it is calmed. The point, however, is to see if he will have the determination to hold to his way and not be intimidated. The latest storm has been created by his intention to issue a decree prohibiting religious communities from engaging in industrial and commercial pursuits. Of late years many complaints have been heard from all the Catholic countries at the way in which the Congregations neglect their real functions in order to conduct various businesses. This produces scandal in heretic and faithful alike, and the Holy Father thinks the moment has come to stop it. There is no secret made of the fact that some monasteries are turned into distilleries for famous liqueurs, in which millions of pounds are involved; others are manufactories of chocolate, others make medicine, while it is the commonest thing in the world for convents to be turned into pensions, where the nuns are nothing but serving-maids, all of which produce a serious rivalry with legitimate business. The Pope is of opinion that this not only makes the Congregations disliked, but that it is most unseemly and a wandering far from their vows. It is proposed, therefore, that the congregations must cede their industry to some civil society, who will work it for them under whatever conditions they choose to make, while the convents will have to drop altogether their very lucrative business and devote themselves to religious duties.

IMPORTANT NEW INVENTION

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY REDUCED TO AN EXACT SCIENCE.

Lord Stanley introduced a short but important bill in the House of Commons dealing with wireless telegraphy. Effective control rather than monopoly is the object aimed at. National and Imperial interests demand in the Government's opinion that the use of wireless telegraphy shall be under strict supervision, and it is intended to make the commercial side subservient to these higher interests. The machinery which the Postmaster General has devised will effectually secure this.

The statement that the Post-office engineers have devised "an entirely new system of wireless telegraphy" is incorrect. They have been experimenting for some time with the object of clearing up a number of points with regard to the working of wireless telegraphy, and, it is believed, that they have been successful. While, however, no new system has been devised, a new instrument has been submitted to the engineers at St. Martin's-le-Grand which is likely to place wireless telegraphy on a more practical footing than has hitherto been possible. The apparatus, which is the invention of a member of the Institute of Electrical Engineers measures the energy of the current at the receiving station. What unit measurements did for ordinary telegraph fifty or sixty years ago this instrument, in the opinion of the Post-office experts, will do for wireless telegraphy. It will, that is to say, make wireless telegraphy an exact science, capable of practical development. By its means the interference with messages in transit, which is one of the most serious drawbacks to the system at present, is likely to be overcome, as definite knowledge of the strength of the current will make it possible to develop tuning. The Post-office has adopted the instrument.

The "Times" says:—As erroneous statements have been made with regard to the provisions of the Bill for the Regulation of Wireless Telegraphy introduced in the House of Commons by the Postmaster General (Lord Stanley), it may be explained that the scheme submitted for legislative sanction involves no question of the creation of a Government monopoly. The Ministerial proposal is that, so far as this country is concerned, wireless telegraphy shall be dealt with by means of licences. Under existing arrangements the State has no power, even in the case of national emergency, to impose limitations upon the operations of companies or syndicates formed for the purpose of promoting the latest development of long-distance, rapid communication; and it is mainly to remedy this defect that official action is being taken. A further point is that one installation of wireless telegraphy can always interfere with another, and that, therefore, it is necessary to select places for the working of the different installations in such fashion that in giving licences there shall be no clashing. It is therefore obvious that the Government should have wider statutory powers in this connection in order that there may not be undue preference. At present the Government cannot make regulations with regard to telegraphs unless the extreme points of the systems dealt with are within the United Kingdom or within the three mile maritime limit. The powers now asked for would enable the Government to exercise control over installations set up for telegraphy to longer distances. The point to be especially emphasised, however, is that the bill awaiting second reading makes no attempt to establish a State monopoly in wireless telegraphy.

MISS KRUPP AND THE ESSEN WORKS.

Writing in the "Girl's Realm," Hermann Gebhardt says that undoubtedly the richest girl in the world is Miss Krupp, who on the death of her father, became chief proprietor of the world-famed Krupp Works, at Essen, in Germany. Miss Krupp is a charming German girl, who wields her immense power with discretion and generosity. The city of Essen, with its 100,000 inhabitants, is practically her private property so that she possesses almost despotic power over her employes and their families. The magnitude of the Krupp Works can only be realised by those who have visited Essen and viewed in person the amazing results of the organising genius of Miss Krupp's father and grandfather. The works contain 111 huge steam-hammers, which are piled with consuming din for 24 hours every day in the week 1,500 large ovens, the fires of which are never let out; and 3,421 steam machines, which are incessantly at work. No fewer than 2,500 tons of coal are burned every day to keep all the necessary furnaces alight. The works are interested by Krupp's own railways, which, though only within the boundaries of the establishment, have a total length of over 50 miles. In addition there are 20½ miles of telegraph wires and a complete network of telephone wires for the exclusive use of the Krupp Works. Thirty-three locomotives are in use on the private railways, and 600 operators are employed to manipulate and supervise telegraph and telephone arrangements. Besides its own ordinary factories and workshops, the Krupp Works possess their own gas-works, electric generating stations, a chemical laboratory, a factory for fireproof stones, and two brick kilns.

CONTROL OF THE WORKS.

During the last decade, the Krupp Works have sold 23,000 big artillery guns to 34 different countries, besides immense quantities of steel rails and all sorts of other steel products. Apart from the works themselves, the Krupp possessions include extensive coal and iron-ore mines near Bilbao, in Spain, 500 coal and iron-ore mines in Germany, and a score of stone quarries. Four large ocean steamships are employed to bring the products of the Spanish mines to Hamburg. The personal accumulation of riches belongs chiefly to Miss Krupp. The control of the works is entrusted to a committee of management, but Miss Krupp herself takes a keen interest in all the complicated affairs of her vast concern. Reports on the operations of the various departments are laid before her with unfailing regularity, and features which are inexplicable to her are made clear by the statements of experts delegated by the committee of management to enlighten her. The heiress seems to have inherited some of the family capacity for industrial organisation, for she takes the greatest pride and delight in mastering the details of the work of different departments, and declares that at some future time she will have gained sufficient experience to take an active part in the direction of affairs.

SPECIALLY GUARDED.

Miss Krupp's charitable disposition has become known to the general public in Germany, with the result that she receives, on an average, over 200 begging letters a day. She has to undergo some of the inconveniences which are generally known only by emperors and kings. Her vast wealth and the ownership of an entire city make her a likely object for Anarchist attacks. For this reason, her guardians have insisted on her being continually guarded by a special corps of detectives. When she drives or walks out, one or two of them are always in her vicinity. When she takes exercise in her private grounds, the detectives are close at hand to keep off intruders, and when she travels by railway still more elaborate precautions are taken. Miss Krupp resents these restrictions and finds the supervision of detectives irksome in the extreme, but she submits, recognising the necessity of the precautionary measures. Kaiser Wilhelm takes the keenest interest in the welfare of Miss Krupp whose father was his close personal friend. When Miss Krupp makes her formal debus in Berlin society, it will be under the special protection of the Kaiser and of the Empress.

THE MYSTERY OF MR. LOOMIS.

BODY WASHED ASHORE.

The mystery of the disappearance of Mr. Kent Loomis, the American diplomat who disappeared from the "Kaiser Wilhelm II." either just before or immediately after that vessel's arrival at Plymouth on Monday, June 20, has been cleared up.

On Saturday 23rd July the body was washed ashore on Thurlestone Sands in Bigbury Bay, near Kingsbridge Devon.

It will be remembered that Mr. Loomis left New York carrying despatches of the greatest importance from his brother (the Acting Secretary of State at Washington) for the United States Ambassador in Paris on June 14.

The American Consul (Mr. J. G. Stevens) identified the body as that of Mr. Kent Loomis.

Interviewed by a Press correspondent, he said there was an abrasion under the right ear. The articles found included cards bearing the name F. Kent Loomis, a receipt of membership of the Blennhasit Club, a gold watch, a gold ring, and English and American money. The watch had stopped at six o'clock. The "Kaiser Wilhelm II.," arrived at Ply mouth at 2 a.m., on June 20. No important papers were found on deceased. The Press Association's correspondent says grave suspicion exists in official circles that foul play is concerned with the death of Loomis, as behind the right ear there is a large but clean wound, which is thought to have been caused before death. Judging from the time his watch stopped, Loomis must have fallen over board near the Eddystone, which is twenty miles distant from where the body was recovered.

A terrible story has been revealed in Parliament writes a home paper, in a question put by Mr. Leamy to Mr. Wyndham. It appears that a quarter-cask of whisky, containing about sixty-two gallons, which had been procured by the guardians of the Naas Union for the use of the inmates, has become "not potable" owing to having been reduced by water which was subsequently found to have been polluted. The Local Government Board has ordered it to be destroyed, and, since duty has been paid on it, it was asked whether the Commissioners of Inland Revenue would refund the duty or make some allowance in respect thereof, seeing that the Guardians were at the loss of the material and had to replace it? Mr. Wyndham admitted the facts, but the Revenue could do nothing. Justice had been vindicated by the enforced resignation of the workhouse master, whose laches have made good whisky "not potable." As we have said, a distressing story, which would almost seem to suggest that it is as well not to get too much whisky at one time. Had there been less than sixty-two gallons, clearly less would have been made "not potable."

Floriline—For the Teeth and Breath.—A few drops of the liquid Floriline sprinkled on a wet toothbrush produces a pleasant lather, which thoroughly cleanses the teeth from all parasites or impurities, hardens the gums, prevents tartar, stops decay, gives to the teeth a peculiar pearly whiteness and a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes all unpleasant odour arising from decayed teeth or tobacco smoke. The Fragrant Floriline being composed in parts of Honey and Sweet Herbs, is delicious to the taste, and the greatest toilet discovery of the age. Of all Chemists and Perfumers. HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE.

There seems to be no end to the possibe adaptations of the co-operative system. Co-operative insurances we all know, but they have started a co-operative insurance company in St. Petersburg which seems to fill "a felt want." Its clients are chiefly found among doctors, lawyers, students of both sexes, and journalists. Working men are admitted on specially favourable terms. And the objects of the company are to insure—against banishment to Siberia, an accident which in Russia everyone is liable to. In case of banishment the insured person receives a certain monthly payment, varying, we suppose, with the amount of the premium, for six months. Whether it is sent in postal orders to Siberia or paid to the representatives of the insured person we are not told; presumably, however, the latter.

The town of Anaconda, in Nevada, possesses, like other towns, a theatre. Somewhere within riding distance a miner was working who heard of it. He had never been to a theatre, and doubtless his companions dazzled his imagination with descriptions of the glories of the stage. One day he made up his mind that he would see it for himself. Accordingly he rode into Anaconda. He arrived at the theatre half an hour before the performance began, bought his ticket and took his seat. The play on that occasion was not much of a draw, and for twenty minutes the miner had solitary possession of the stalls, or what answers to stalls in Anaconda. For twenty minutes he sat there gazing at the curtain. It was a poor curtain, having in its centre a pale representation of a mountain rising from the sea. When the miner had looked his fill at it he rose and departed for his distant home. "The boys had me there," he muttered as he mounted his horse. "Nothing more in a panoramer. And a pretty rotten panoramer at that."

The Japanese Government has found a novel and excellent use for postcards. Realising that, for various reasons, the soldier on campaign may not have leisure or opportunity to write home to his family, the military authorities have supplied to each army a sufficient number of postcards, ready printed, to which the soldier has only to affix his name, or, more exactly, his seal, each Japanese soldier carrying one with him as part of his outfit. On all the cards the same message is printed:—"This is to let you know that I am alive and well. I cannot give you my address, not knowing where I shall be to-morrow; but your letters will reach me some time or other if you reply to the place the name of which is printed in the postmark. Greetings to my family and friends." This is an idea which might well be copied by other nations. At once practical and humane, it would cost little and save many thousands of people from unnecessary anxiety and pain.

There are people who smile pityingly at those gentle fishermen who line the banks of the Seine, who never seem to hook a fish but whose patience is undying. But now something has happened which proves that there are—or were—fish even in the Seine. A few miles below Paris thousands upon thousands of dead gudgeon roach and bream came floating down the river belly upwards collecting in thick masses at all the quiet bends, making the air in the terrific heat reek with a pestilential odour. So great a nuisance did they become that the police had to be mobilised to gather them in heaps and bury them in holes on the banks. And the cause of this massacre? The engineers of the great sewage elevating works had a two days' holiday, so instead of the sewage being pumped as usual on to the farms it was quietly turned into the river for a couple of days! The most astounding part of the matter is the fact that the same thing occurred a few years ago, with the same result. But official memories are short—when convenient.

Not far from New York is a lake known as Upper Saranac, and on that lake during the last ten or twelve years has unfolded itself a study in evolution which would have been dear to the heart of Darwin. Ten or twelve years ago the New Yorkers began to discover that Upper Saranac was an ideal place for "camping out." They began with tents. From tents they rose to simple wooden cabins in small clearings on the lake shore. Slowly but surely the evolving process continued, and the cabins became substantial houses of two or more storeys. Parquet floors took the place of rough-hewn boards, Bathrooms with hot and cold water, were added. Servants came an average of one to each guest. Late dinners were felt to be desirable, served on fine linen to guests arrayed in the modern equivalent for purple. Electric launches came in their turn. For them dynamos were a necessity. Electric lighting for the "cabins" followed. And so on. Now someone has suddenly discovered that as far as "camping out" is concerned they might just as well be living in New York. Which, on the face of it, seems not improbable.

The death of ex-President Kruger recalls an amusing story which gained a hearing at the outbreak of the South African war. It was said at the time that Mr. Kruger had sent emissaries to England to ascertain what the attitude would be if it would be possible for us to put in the field. One of these Boer emissaries came to Lancashire and got so far as Wigan. On the day of his arrival he received a shock. Coming along a road he met a long file of men, large of limb and swart of cheek—blacker even than the Kaffirs of his native land—carrying picks and spades hammers, wedges, and other dearly instruments. Greatly wondering, he determined to trace this mysterious march to its source. His researches brought him at last to the pit-bank of one of the largest collieries in the district. Here he watched, with mouth agape, the great cage descend into the bowels of the earth—to return again with its burden of black humanity. Then—so local tradition has it—the Boer fled from the scene. Coming to the town post office he sent at once this telegram:—"Stop the war. The English are bringing black men up from Hell sixteen at a time."

An interesting discovery has been made at the Basilica of Santa Maria Maggiore, in Rome. Between the roof and the flat ceiling of the nave (the latter dating from the end of the fifteenth century) Signor Colasanti has discovered remains of mural frescoes which formed the upper part of the internal decoration. They consist of a series of large medallions, containing busts of saints on a blue ground. Above them is depicted a row of small arcades and above these again a line of rosettes. The paintings are said to show great power, due allowance having been made by the artist for their distance from the ground. From their date Signor Colasanti associates them either with Cimabue or Pietro Cavallini, the name of both of which artists appear in documents among the archives of the Basilica, though in neither case is allusion made to their having worked in it. Frescoes by Cavallini recently came to light in the church of Santa Cecilia, in Trastevere, and are said to have several characteristics in common with those now discovered.

The French Academy of Medicine has just had laid before it a curious volume, being the pathological history of the Kings of France. In it M. Brachet has attempted to set forth how events were influenced by the character, temperament, and in particular, the maladies of the Kings. Louis XI. had a particularly promising origin. His father had rickets, his aunt (Jeanne of France) was deformed his uncle apoplectic and his grandfather imbecile, while he himself was epileptic, gouty attacked by skin diseases and minor troubles which have no doubt had their effect on the subsequent history of France. If Napoleon III. had had his illness diagnosed in time or rather if he had not concealed his condition for it is now proved he did on the war of 1870 might never have occurred. If Napoleon I had not been ill in Belgium Waterloo might not have been a disaster. If Louis XVI. had not been such a glutton he might not have been too late in his flight to Varenne and thus have escaped the guillotine. If—but if ifs and ands were pots and pans there'd be no work for tinkers.

M. Coquiot in an article in the "Nouvelle Revue" on Sorcery, declares that even in our day a firm belief in sorcery prevails among French peasants, especially among sheperds who lead solitary lives in close contact with the mysteries of Nature.

Few people were probably aware of the fact that Sir Reginald Palgrave, who has just died was paternally of Jewish descent. His father Sir Francis Palgrave the historian, was the only son of a London stockbroker called Meyer Cohen, says "The Manchester Guardian," but was admitted to the Christian Church in 1823 and in the same year changed his name from Cohen to Palgrave by Royal licence. Sir Reginald was the brother of Francis Turner Palgrave, the well-known compiler of the "Golden Treasury of Songs and Lyrics," and of William Gifford Palgrave, who having been captain of Westminster School, scholar of Trinity College, Oxford, and a lieutenant in the Indian army became a Roman Catholic joined the Jesuits worked as a missionary in Syria, returned to Protestantism and died English Minister resident at Uruguay.

In the church at Sucsany, Austria, Herr and Frau Dubos, sen., celeberated their golden wedding; their son Mathias and his wife their silver wedding; and the latter's daughter was married all on the same day. Another grandchild of the old people the bride's brother, read the service as priest for the first time.

Sir James Fergusson sits in the House of Commons through these hot afternoons with a drooping head. The right hon. baronet is the sound sleeper of the House now that "Dicky" Temple is no longer with us (says the "North Mail"); but he is run very close by Colonel Lucas, who, presumably because he knew all about it, slept with a nodding grace through Mr. Arnold-Forster's speech. Another richly endowed disciple of Morpheus is the venerable Sir Francis Sharpe Powell. But for the fact of not having sat continuously in the House Sir James Fergusson would be its father.

It need hardly be stated that St. Swithin is a fraud. As a matter of fact, the records show that a sunny St. Swithin's Day has most frequently been followed by a rainy period, and a wet St. Swithin's Day by a long spell of beautiful sunshine.

Sir John Aird, who is retiring after this Session, will be much missed, though, seeing that he is now over seventy—little as this might be suspected by the casual observer—his decision is hardly to be wondered at. Sir John has been the architect, or perhaps one might more appropriately say, the engineer of his own fortunes. When he was born his father was working for a London gas company, being himself the son of a working-man who lost his life in the making of the Regent's Canal. Sir John's biggest achievement was, of course, the construction of the great Nile dam at Assouan—a work which kept employed an army of some 15,000 men night and day for over three years. The Millwall Docks were also the creation of his firm, together with the waterworks of three great English towns and those of three European capitals. The wonderful West Highland Railway is another of Sir John's achievements, in the execution of which he has been not a little aided by that child of his own invention—the "steam navvy."

For the Skin

You cannot have a clear and smooth skin unless the blood is pure. Blotches, eruptions, rashes, pimples, all show how impure the blood must be. Get all impurities out of your blood before you are seriously ill.

Miss Dorothy Maher, of Fitzroy, Victoria, sends her photograph and this letter:

"I had a terrible eruption on my face, which was of a very irritating nature. I tried many blood medicines, but without relief. Friends told me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as it was a most famous blood remedy. I did so, and after taking only two bottles I began to see a great change. By the time the third bottle was used the eruption had entirely disappeared, and without leaving a mark on my face. I am perfectly well now, and I owe it all to this great blood-purifying remedy."

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

There are many imitation Sarsaparillas. Be sure you get "Ayer's."

M. A. P. IN THE GREEN ROOM.

Miss ELIZABETH's is preceded now at the Imperial by a little play which deals with the prisoner of a terrible Russian Government official named Alexis Markarevitch. The Countess Pauline is a spy in the pay of the Emperor of All the Russias, but, as is common with female spies on the stage, she falls in love with the particular Nihilist who happens to be most dangerous to the Crown, and turns obstinate just when Alexis wants her to be on her best and usefullest behaviour. By a stretch of leniency which one finds it hard to associate with the methods of a Baron Scarpia, a character which that of Alexis very strongly recalls, a free pardon for the lady's lover is given to Pauline on condition that she will get from him the time and place, together with the password and the names of certain of the conspirators, of an imminent Nihilist meeting.

The pardon being given in advance of the information, an action suggestive of a kindliness and a trustfulness of nature which one feels Miss Alicia Rumsey and Mr. Rudolph de Cordova, the writers of the little piece, did not really intend to invest Alexis with, Pauline refuses to carry out her part of the contract after the interview with her lover in the Minister of Justice's room in the Palace, St. Petersburg, and, metaphorically,—only metaphorically, for Pauline is a distinguished Countess as well as an Imperial lady detective—puts her finger to her nose at Alexis. But "forests have ears and fields have eyes," and the tenements of a Minister of Justice in the Palace, St. Petersburg, have sliding panels, and so Alexis is in a position to say that he knows all—all, that is, but the password. This password being "death," Pauline thinks she will communicate it to Alexis after all—but in her own particular way; which is by stabbing him through his beautiful breast decorations to the heart with a little dagger belonging to her lover. And so endeth the play—and Alexis.

The Password, as Miss Ramsey and Mr. de Cordova call their little Tosca incident is written in the approved language of the Russian drama as made in England and is very finely played by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sugden—assisted by Mr. Frank Dyall who, as the Nihilist lover, speaks so much like Mr. Lewis Waller—probably from understudying him in "Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner"—that to shut one's eyes and to listen to him is to feel that the Imperial actor manager is on the stage. Serious enough of purpose and successfully managing to express in turn the sinister urbane and bullying manner of the accepted dramatic Russian Government official Mr. Charles Sugden is yet liable—especially when acting with mock politeness towards the Countess—to fall into unconscious suggestions of Mr. Willie Edouin as a courtier. Mrs Sugden plays Pauline with the intensity that the part of a Russian female spy in all the glory of a tiara and an elaborate ball dress, requires for its interpretation, and her love scenes with her Nihilist are as tender as her hate scenes with the naughty Alexis are strong and convincing. Mr. Lewis Waller is to be congratulated upon having secured two such competent and popular players for his new curtain raiser. It is something uncommon to have one's punctuality at the theatre rewarded with fi st-class acting.

An account I gave oncesof a Russian play reached subscribers of M. A. P. resident in St. Petersburg in the condition of the proverbial player of Othello, who blacked himself all over to show how thorough he was in his conception of the part. The play reviewed was of the usual Anglo-Russian type—I say this without disrespect to the clever writers of "The Password"—and contained many dark hints of darkest Siberia, and the supposed brutality and craftiness of the Russian Government, and the censors connected with the post offices of St. Petersburg doubtless thought that if English visitors read it, something unpleasant might happen to the country—though what difference the perusal of a few notes on such a play could really make to Russia no one can with certainty say. But the notes were blacked out all the same; and now comes the absurd part of the story. I have heard since from an actress who received my article on the play in its inky cloak, while she was visiting Russia that if the black is left to dry thoroughly it can afterwards be removed quite easily with a hard brush. Within an hour of opening her M. A. P. and finding the Green Room turned into a Black Room the lady was able thanks to a gas-stove and a dry tooth brush to read every word I had written on the offending drama in question. So the censors of the Russian P. O will have now to forbid the sale of tooth-brushes and gas-stoves.

Under the patronage of Miss King and a long procession of Royalty reaching half way down the programme and by permission of the Earl and Countess of Meath a cafe chantant of a most agreeable character was held on Thursday at 83 Lancaster Gate in aid of the funds of the workrooms' branch of the Soldiers' and Sailors Help Society. The star of the occasion was Miss Alys Bateman, the beautiful soprano who made her debut in May of last year at the St. James's Hall, and who since then has been singing with the greatest success at most of the best concerts of the summer and winter seasons; and associated with this chic princess of song in the honours of the afternoon were such distinguished artists as Mr. Percy French, Miss Evelyn Barton, and Mr. Walter Raymond. Miss Bateman not only possesses a voice of remarkable strength range, and beauty, but she has that other gift which goes for so much on the concert platform of to-day—the gift of personal charm and prettiness. Graceful carriage, glorious dresses and the knowledge of wearing them to advantage combine with that delightful voice in making the singer an all round joy to the lover of good things and although her vocal powers are undoubtedly of sufficient quality to attract by themselves there is yet no little reason for her well-wishers to rejoice that her talent is backed up by those personal gifts which to-day more than ever have their distinct value to the artist whose work lies in the direction of Society drawing-rooms as well as the public platform.

Although given a first rate musical education by her father, who was himself an unusually fine tenor (though not a public singer), Miss Alys Bateman was forbidden during his life to adopt singing as a profession. Parental authority, however—and as ever—was evaded to the length of singing in public for charity, and at the age of fourteen she called on a bishop and induced him to attend, and open with a speech, her first concert, which was in aid of the North-Eastern Hospital for Children. After her father's death she sang to Mr. D'Oyly Carte, who at once engaged her for the part of Elsie in The Gondoliers. This engagement, however, Miss Bateman never fulfilled, for when she told her people about it they would not allow her to follow it up, and in a few days, when the matter had been thoroughly discussed with Mr. Carte, the young lady was brought out of the contract like a soldier out of a regiment, and sent with relatives to Madeira. There she made many valuable friends, among them the Princess of Monaco and the late Empress of Austria, both of whom were charmed with her singing and gave her very considerable encouragement and useful patronage.

Not long after her debut at the St. James's Hall Miss Bateman further distinguished herself by organising, or originating, the remarkably successful Union Jack Club Concert, in which the King and Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales took so deep an interest; and in aid of the funds of the same club she subsequently carried through with most satisfactory results a great concert at the Queen's Hall at which Mr. Henry J. Wood conducted the orchestra and some of the best singers of the day gave their services. Most of her charity concerts seem to have been given with the idea of benefiting the sailor; and this may be accounted for in the fact that Miss Bateman is a great traveller. It is worth recalling in this connection that the popular soprano of last Thursday's entertainment at the Earl and Countess of Meath's was going round with the hat, after a little concert she had given once on a Castle liner on its way home (for the funds of some maritime charity as usual), when she stopped in front of a lolling millionaire and asked him to contribute a trifle. A trifle is just what the great man contributed—a penny! But Miss Bateman had her own back beautifully, for when a friend who was near raised her eyebrows in surprise at the small amount, and looked condolingly at the concert-giver, Miss Bateman cried cheerfully, so that all in the saloon might hear, "Oh, it's all right; He hasn't taken anything out!"

The pride of the pretty little donkey in Veronique at the Apollo, which wears in the summer time a light holland cover on its back with the name "Edna" worked in the corner, has been injured almost beyond repair. When Edna was afflicted on the first night of the Apollo piece with stage fright she—it is more respectful perhaps to call Edna she than it—conducted herself in so unruly a manner that it was noted down by one of the critics and duly embodied in his more matured criticism that the new actress at Mr. Henry Lowenfeld's house was probably more accustomed to knocking 'em in the Old Kent Road than performing a similar feat in the less Arrys-tocratic Shaftesbury Avenue, and that it would be more at home in the shafts of a barrow than in the principal scene of a comic opera.

This seems to have given the greatest offence, both to Edna and her manager, or proprietor, and the gentleman, who holds this appointment, and who provides donkeys and horses for other theatres, has asked me to give the publicity of these columns to his annoyance that Edna should have been so far insulted as to have been taken for a moke of common breed. The proprietor of Edna opened his heart to me quite seriously on the matter (it was at the recent Actors' Orphanage Fete at the Botanic Gardens), as he appeared to think that Edna's career was damaged in no small degree by the inference of the bold bad critic. I promised him I would set things right in the Green Room. Edna, then, is a donkey of most refined family and education, and her extraordinary behaviour on the opening night of Veronique, so far from being the natural result of low breeding, was in reality a sign of the possession of those highly strung nerves that are the widely acknowledged heritage of genius.

At the same fete I heard something almost as amusing as the donkey gentleman's objection to the criticism of the flighty Edna. Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, as most people who follow the news of the theatre are by now well aware, presided over an Aunt Sally pitch whereof the heads to "chuck" at were the heads, in two senses, of the theatrical profession. The curly-topped face of the romantic Mr. Wilson Barrett beamed forth invitingly from the end of a stake, coming in for as great a share of knocks as most of its fellows in decapitation, and around it and about it grew in thick profusion the detached countenances of Henry Arthur Jones, Arthur Bourchier, Henry Irving, Pinero, W. S. Gilbert, Willard, Beerbohm Tree, George Alexander, and Charles Wyndham—all looking like a great and ghostly gathering of the heads that used to adorn the top of Temple Bar some hundreds of years before the old City gateway was removed to Cheshunt as an entrance arch to Lady Meux's park. Just as a celebrated comedian was about to throw a ball at the head of an equally celebrated dramatist, a movement took place in the crowd of people, on the broad path, and in the midst of the rocking sea of feminine headgear at its brightest, was espied a masculine topper. "Hullo!" cried the comedian, pausing in his act of revenge and looking round, "here comes the man in the white hat to have a shot at Wyndham! The man in the white hat proved to be his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

Worry and Anxiety

almost inevitably lead to a weakened and impoverished condition of the nervous system. These are forms of mental and nervous fatigue, and indicate that the nervous system is unequal to the demands made upon it by business responsibilities, social obligations, or professional duties. Such feelings give urgent and emphatic warning that the entire nervous system has become enfeebled, either as a consequence of nervous overstrain or owing to imperfect nutrition, resulting from physical illness or disorder.

Nervous Debility

of which worry and anxiety are such distressing symptoms, demands special treatment the nature of which is easily understood. If the body be weak it shows that fitting nourishment is required, and the same is equally true if the nervous system be weakened. It needs proper nutrition.

But how seldom the exhausted nervous system receives the right treatment. In many cases stimulants are resorted to, which give merely fictitious and temporary strength to the nerves, but actually leave them more weakened and worn out than before. If the nervous system be exhausted it really requires a remedy that will assist the nervous system to assimilate nourishment from the ordinary food, and will at the same time supply the vital nerve elements which are lost under the strain of overwork. Such a remedy is found in

Bishop's Tonules

A Nerve Nutrient not a Stimulant.

Bishop's Tonules are a thoroughly scientific preparation, free from harmful drugs and act directly upon the nerves, improving their nutrition, building up the worn away tissues, and restoring the impoverished nervous system to full health and vigour.

To understand how and why Bishop's Tonules do this it must be borne in mind that in nervous disorders generally the nerve and brain substance is worn away faster than it can be replaced. The nerves also lack the power to extract from the food taken the elements which they have lost, and until they can do this there can be no improvement in their exhausted condition.

The principal of these nervous disorders are as follows: Nervous and General Debility or Impaired Vitality, indicated by Lassitude, Fatigue, Want of Mental and Physical Energy, Weakened Will Power, Inability for Sustained Mental Effort, Irritability and Brain Fag, Nervous Exhaustion, Indecision and Lack of Confidence and "Pluck," Mental Depression, Worry and Anxiety, Forebodings, Morbidity and Melancholy, Neurasthenia, or a worn-out condition of the Nervous System generally, characterised by Headache, Vertigo, Muscular and Nervous Prostration, and Diminished Mental Powers.

There is no pretence that Bishop's Tonules do anything magical or extraordinary. They simply supply those elements that are lacking, and supply them in such a form that they can be taken up easily and naturally by the nerves. Hence it is only reasonable to expect nerve restoration where they are used.

Obviously this takes time, just as an ill-nourished body cannot be built up in a day; but the result of a continued course of treatment by Bishop's Tonules will be the restoration of the nervous system to perfect health and strength.

The effects of the Tonule treatment may not be apparent immediately, but after a short time there is an improvement in the appetite, the assimilation of food is promoted, the liver stimulated, and the flow of bile increased. The various organs of the body all show improved activity and the building up of the tissues is hastened. The eyes grow brighter and the complexion more healthy. There is a tendency for thin subjects to gain flesh, while soft and flabby flesh becomes firm. In addition to all these evidences of the power of Bishop's Tonules, the symptoms of nervous debility and exhaustion gradually disappear, and it is only a question of time as to how long it will take for the whole nervous system to be restored to full strength.

Bishop's Tonules

A Fortnight's Treatment 2/9.

A letter has just been received from a gentleman in Hampshire in the following terms:—"I have now gone through a fortnight's course of Bishop's Tonules with great benefit. I was suffering from nevousness and depression, and these have almost disappeared, especially the latter. I took one Tonule with each of my three meals."

Bishop's Tonules are supplied in vials containing a fortnight's treatment, made by Alfred Bishop (Limited), Spelman-street, Mile End New Town, London, supplies may be obtained from your chemist or drug store for 2s. 9d. Alfred Bishop (Limited) are Manufacturing Chemists only, and have but one address.

Note There are two points we wish specially to emphasise. One is that it is supremely unwise to delay commencing the treatment with Bishop's Tonules if you recognise that you are suffering from nervous overstrain or nervous or brain exhaustion. Your condition will become worse, and you may have a serious breakdown as a result of your neglect. The other point is that Alfred Bishop are always pleased to give further information to any requiring it.

LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL

THE PUREST. THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.

Incontestably proved by Forty Years' Medical Experience to be The only Cod Liver Oil which produces the full curative effects in CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, RICKETS, AND ALL SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D., Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL, Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S., Late Staff Surgeon, Army, Professor of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution, London.
"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of "hydro-carbons" in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognized; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognized."

DR. R. C. CROFT, Author of "Handbook for the Nursery."
"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is almost a specific in many of the Diseases peculiar to Infancy and Childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is supplied ONLY in IMPERIAL Half-Pints, Pints and Quarts, sealed with BETTS' Patent Capsule impressed on the top with DR. DE JONGH'S Stamp, and on the side with his Signature, and the Signature of ANSAR, HARFORD & Co.; and bearing under the wrapper a Label with the same Stamp and Signatures.

A SOLVED QUESTION.

THE QUESTION now-a-days among Smokers is, Why should Vafiadis' Cigarettes be so largely distributed?
The answer is not far to seek.

It is because Vafiadis having had a life-long experience in Tobacco knows what is suitable for this peculiar climate of India, and it also is because their only intention is to satisfy their thousands of Customers by guaranteeing a new consignment of their Cigarettes every fourteen days.

To the above facts it is due that their Cigarettes are so highly praised and smoked by the throng, and are pronounced by connoisseurs to be superior to all others.

MOTHERS SHOULD REMEMBER
When selecting an artificial Food for their babies
THREE DISTINCTIVE CHARACTERISTICS OF

MELLIN'S FOOD

IT IS EASILY DIGESTIBLE AND VERY ASSIMILABLE AND NOURISHING.
IT IS READILY SOLUBLE AND MAY BE PREPARED IN A FEW SECONDS.
IT IS FREE FROM HUSKS AND INDIGESTIBLE MATTER, WHICH WOULD CAUSE IRRITATION.

The importance of these properties is seen when it is remembered that the digestive organs are simpler, and the necessity for readily available food greater in an infant than in an adult. By the use of MELLIN'S FOOD, and the exercise of proper care, those diseases which make such frightful havoc among infants—diarrhœa, convulsions, and the various wasting diseases, etc.—have been largely decreased.

MELLIN'S FOOD for Infants and Invalids may be obtained of all Dealers throughout India
